

New theater group to hold auditions in Marlborough

CONTRIBUTED PHOTO

The newly-formed Ghost Light Players recently held a “Meet and Greet” for its first show, “Almost, Maine.” From left, Kim Beauchemin of Marlborough, stage manager for the show; Cliff Dike, producer of the show; Kat Alix-Gaudreau, director of the show; Dennis McCumber, who will audition for the show; Tess McCumber, who attended with her parents; and Kim McCumber, who will audition for the show.

By Staff reports
Marlborough Enterprise

Posted Jan 15, 2012 @ 12:00 AM

MARLBOROUGH —

Auditions for the Ghost Light Players’ first production, “Almost, Maine,” will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 17, and Thursday, Jan. 19.

The auditions run from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Parish Hall at the First Church in Marlborough, Congregational, 37 High St. The show calls for an ensemble cast of 10 people (five men, five women) within the age range of 20s to early 40s.

The Ghost Light Players will be performing “Almost, Maine,” on March 23, 24 and 25. Ghost Light Players of MetroWest is a newly formed theater group, operating out of Marlborough.

“Ghost Light Players gives me the exciting opportunity to work with the very talented people of Marlborough and the MetroWest area,” said Kat Alix-Gaudreau, the artistic director of the group. “I love the challenge of creating something out of nothing, and community theater provides that challenge in spades. I look forward to mounting our first production and seeing where it takes us from there!”

For additional information on the theater company or the show, email info@ghostlightplayers.com or visit ghostlightplayers.com.